

Why this programme?

Help your colleagues speak with confidence, structure and clarity in English.

Whether presenting, pitching, or participating in meetings — communication is key. Step Up & Speak is a structured speaking programme that builds fluency, impact and professional presence.

Who's it for?

Mid-level professionals, team leads, and specialists who:

- Use English regularly at work
- Want to express ideas more clearly and confidently
- Are preparing for visibility, leadership, or influence
- Work in international or client-facing roles
- Group size: 8–12 participants
- English level: Intermediate to advanced (B1–C1)

Step Up & Speak

Structured communication training for international teams

Step Up & Speak

Build confidence in public speaking and professional communication

Learning outcomes

- Greater fluency and speaking confidence
- Clearer pronunciation, structure and vocabulary
- Better ability to present ideas, lead discussions, and engage international audiences
- Measurable improvement over time

Program format & structure

Step Up & Speak combines proven techniques from public speaking programmes with real-world business relevance. Each session follows a clear structure:

- A short warm-up to build fluency and confidence
- Prepared mini-presentations on relevant topics
- Impromptu speaking tasks to practise spontaneity
- Live feedback to sharpen structure, delivery, and clarity

Participants grow over time — session by session — with feedback summaries every few weeks and a final Speaker Showcase to celebrate progress.

Optional: CEFR-level placement tool and individual progress feedback summaries.

Whether you're addressing a client, explaining a complex idea, or leading a team discussion, this programme helps you speak up with purpose.

Coach profile & customisation

This programme is led by Andrew Wilkins, a British communication coach with more than 30 years of experience in strategic messaging, corporate communication, and coaching international professionals.

Having worked across Europe and the US with leaders and teams from diverse industries, Andrew brings insight, empathy, and practical techniques that resonate.

Custom options are available for your team's goals — including initial English level assessment, tailored themes (e.g. innovation, leadership, sustainability), or a follow-up coaching package.

Pricing: €3,000 for the full 6-month programme

Additional groups or coaching extensions available on request.
